

Reverend Lane L. Cobb – January 2022

Reverend Lane Cobb is an author, coach and ordained interfaith inter-spiritual minister committed to educating and uplifting those seeking to live a more authentic, spirit-filled life. With over 25 years of coaching experience, she is an expert in the fields of transformation, motivation, and healing, and provides a safe space for people to envision, create and fulfill on individual and collaborative projects.

Through coaching, speaking and group facilitation, she helps individuals move beyond self-limitation for creating a more vibrant future, and teaches community and business leaders how to speak and listen with love, compassion, and a commitment to bringing people together to achieve a common goal.

Her weekly podcast, "Race Talk with Lane and Eugene," offers people of diverse backgrounds an opportunity to engage in courageous conversations about race and cultivate partnerships for exploring antiracist activism. Committed to elevating the social conscience, she and her co-host, Rev. Eugene Holden, provide a safe space where every voice is heard, every voice is appreciated and every voice matters.

Their non-profit organization, Race Talk Revolution, Inc., offers training and support for individuals and faith groups who are committed to creating safe spaces for people to talk authentically about race and racism. Recordings of Race Talk are available on YouTube at Race Talk Revolution
